THE DAILY ASTORIAN will be sent by mail at 75 cents a month, free of postage. Readers who cannot obtain the paper from the city can have THE ASTORIAN delivered to them, DAILY or WEEKLY, at a special rate. Address: J. F. HALLORAN & COMPANY, Astorian Building, Cass Street.

Does your roof leak?
Game is plentiful at the markets.
The Unatilla crossed out to sea yesterday.

D. C. Ireland returned to the city last evening.
The wreck and wreckage of the Feinglen is advertised for sale.

The Edith Lorne proceeded up the river yesterday, Clara Parker towing.

Mrs. M. E. Turner, of Walla Walla, is visiting at the residence of her friend Mrs. Sherman.

The iron tank has been removed from the old county jail to the foundation of the new.

The bark Glengaber started up for Portland yesterday, Oklahoma towing, Johnson pilot.

The Portland Journal of Commerce has changed hands again. Wm. R. Boone owns it this week.

The Oregon came down from Portland yesterday morning and after taking on one thousand tons of wheat went out to sea at noon.

Mr. W. E. Dement, treasurer of the Garfield monument fund, sent Astoria's contribution to the Second National bank of Cleveland, last Tuesday.

Henry Villard and party went out on the Oregon yesterday. The reporter went down to interview that gentleman, but the official that was standing guard said that no one was allowed to see him.

According to a statement made before the Woman Suffrage Convention, there are two hundred and twenty-five women taxpayers in Portland, one hundred and twenty of whom voted at the last school election.

On account of the bad weather and overflowing river, work was stopped on the railroad at Independence, Polk county, and on Thursday the last locomotive with a long line of dump cars steamed away to Portland.

The Guard reports that George E. Strong, formerly editor of the Oregonian, but lately engaged in the practice of law at Lakeview, was lost in the mountains last week, since which time nothing has been heard of him.

A Nehalem valley correspondent writes that any one who is looking for a permanent home, a suitable location, would do well to visit that section. In his opinion it is the best valley in Oregon for raising grain, vegetables, or stock.

Official notification has been received that the fog bell on Race Rock Light, Straits of San Juan de Fuca, was, on September 18th, replaced by a 12-inch steam fog whistle, sounding blasts of 5 seconds duration, with intervals of 1 minute 12 seconds between blasts.

Mr. T. J. Alley invites all friends of temperance, young and old, to meet at 4 o'clock next Sunday afternoon in the Presbyterian church; there will be interesting exercises, temperance speeches, etc. He wishes that all having bands of Hope rituals would bring them.

A Washington Territory subscriber writes, asking if the price of THE WEEKLY ASTORIAN is $2 or $3 a year. That depends: If we send him the paper and trust him for a year, and wait till he sells his grain or shears his sheep we shall expect three bright trade dollars; but if he will send two dollars in advance he will get the newest and cheapest paper in the state for the ensuing twelve months. The force of these remarks lie in their practical application.

Log of the Emma Crowell

Capt. Perry, who took off the crew of the burning ship Maritime Union, furnishes us with the following: "Bark E. T. Crowell sailed from New York May 25th; crossed the equator in the Atlantic 32 degs. west long., 36 days from there to 50 degs. south lat., 65 degs. west long.; had weather around the cape and up to the equator in the Pacific. In long. 116 degs. west had light baffling S. E. trades and stood off to the northeast. At 7:30 P. M., Oct. 11th, sighted a ship leeward, ensign set, union down; bore away for her: found it was the Maritime Union, from Hull, bound for San Francisco, 145 days out, with cargo of gas coal on fire; smoke coming up through the hatches in great volumes. The captain and crew did not think it safe to stop by the ship, so I took them on board my vessel and laid by. Shortly after we left the ship she burst into a flame, and at 9:30 P. M. she went down in lat. 28 deg. 50 min. north, longitude 125 deg. 7 min. west. Arrived off Columbia bar Oct. 22d; made Disappointment light and stood off for daylight."

Notice.

Money to loan, inquire at this office.

Notice.

On and after this date L. E. Selig has no further connection with this paper. Any city subscription for the DAILY ASTORIAN up to last Monday, the 24th inst., are payable to him.

Drowned.

On Friday afternoon Aleck Brisolia while working on a jam of logs in the Waluski fell between the logs and was drowned. The unfortunate man was a French Canadian about 28 years of age. His remains were brought to this city last evening for interment. His death being purely accidental Mr. Franklin did not consider it necessary to hold an inquest.

The New Magdalen.

The high character of the performance Tuesday night was in no way lessened by the rendering of Collins' emotional drama "The New Magdalen" last evening by the Lingard combination. As the widow fair singer but now repentant nurse, Miss Lingard had ample opportunity to evince her histrionic talent, and the good support accorded her by the rest of the company was manifest in the fine rendition of the entire play. The play is one of intense dramatic interest and was thoroughly enjoyed by the large audience present. Many of our citizens were desirous of seeing Miss Lingard in Alice, but engagements in the interior precluded any further stay, though the troupe may stop with us on their return. They leave this morning.

Social.

The social at Mrs. Sherman's last Tuesday evening was an enjoyable affair, and the occasion one of pleasant remembrance to all present. Vocal and instrumental music, charades, etc., constituted the evening's entertainment, and "the old and young, the grave and gay, merrily whiled the hours away" till after a well-served lunch the company separated. Among those present we noticed Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Milligan, Mr. and Mrs. S. Arndt, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Hansen, Mrs. M. E. Turner of Walla Walla, Mrs. D. Curran, Mrs. M. J. Kinney, Mrs. C. L. Parker, Mrs. Dr. Treachard, Mrs. W. W. Parker, Mrs. L. Layton, Mrs. A. Hubson, Mrs. L. Hartwig, Mrs. Bowman, Misses Nellie and Katie Flavel, Belle Monroe, Mary and Ella Hobson, Ella Bryce, Annie Powell, Nora Higgins, Lou Morris, Myra Bailey, Jessie Clough, Annie Pope, Alice Baker, Matilda Hartwig, Ella Pope, Emma Holden, Katie Powell, Emma Morris, Lillie Ireland, Pauline Parker, Josie Brice, Katie Monroe, Hattie Bunning, Messrs. F. D. Winton, W. Barker, J. Brice, Powers, Herman and R. Prael, Geo. Parker, John Montgomery, Milton Bozarth, G. W. Toodlacher, Eben Rogers, G. Abernathy, Fred Newell, Will McGregor, L. E. Selig, S. Bozorth, J. Brice Jr., Edgar Clough.

The Post Intelligencer says that the first American vessel using a propeller was an American bark belonging to Baltimore, and running between that port and the West Indies. Her name has been forgotten by its informant, but he states that it was in 1841 or '42, and that Captain B. B. Williams, who brought the Sea Bird to this coast was her commander. He left the vessel in the trade mentioned. The Sea Bird ran on Puget Sound and Fraser river twenty-three years ago, and was burned in the waters of British Columbia.

Just as E-e-asy.

The fog that in fleecy folds enwrapped the dripping pines—"No, we don't know where Ireland is,"—rolled up last noon, and as the—"It will be 82 50 a square for the first insertion,"—dripping pines enfolded the foggy fleece—"He was in a minute ago; gone down to the Occident,"—that enfolded the foggy fleece of—"Yes, Norris will collect that at the City Hall,"—the concave arch of azure shone resplendent in the presence of—"It was in Sunday's issue; there's the file over there,"—concave arch of azure shone—"I don't know, I'll find out,"—resplendent in the concave presence of the arching azure that—"Kendall's Treatise on Spavin and the Glanders is 25 cents; thanks,"—arching splendor of the concave azure that enwrapped the foggy fleece of—"No, we don't exchange with that paper,"—foggy arch that conceals the dripping pines enwrapped in—"No, my child, the taffy shop is farther down the street,"—azure shone resplendent at the glittering—"It was the Edith Lorne,"—pines enwrapped the fog that fleeced—"They played at the Baldwin just before coming up here,"—concave azure of the glittering fog enwrapping—"Columbia towing, Johnson pilot,"—the azure fleece of concave pine that fleeced the fog—"There he is, standing in front of Page & Allen's,"—the dripping azure that conceals the fog of fleece and pines—"He knocked off for a rest," last Saturday,"—the glittering folds that swung in azure arch were concave pines that fleeced the—"You'll find it in 'Ready for Sea,'"—and the fog that folded the enwrapping fleece of azure—"No, we don't want any raw fish,"—glittering arch of foggy azure, that pines in fleecy—it's no use.

A Story for the Young.

A quiet young man from Shanghai indulged in a piece of mince pie. His life work is over. His form here no more. Will visible be to the ai.

Immediately upon the arrival in this city of the Captain and crew of the Fernglan, a subscription was started for the relief of Capt. Bubb and the sailors by several ship-masters. From the Oregonian we learn that the movement is being successful. So far Capt. Bubb's fund amounts to $522, of which $120 was contributed by the citizens of this place and captains of vessels lying here. A separate subscription paper is being circulated for the crew.

Mammoth Stock of Goods.

The last few steamers brought a large invoice of goods for the establishment of Carl Adler, but the bulk has to come yet by the incoming Columbia. Mr. Carl Adler will return and will bring with him a stock of goods that will astonish the natives; it will be the finest and largest assortment ever brought to Oregon. It is not possible to say any more for the present, but would advise the public to convince themselves of it.

Notice.

Money to loan. Inquire at this office.
